FEES AND CHARGES

Program Fees

The cost of each IIBIT program is detailed in each respective faculty's program description section of this brochure. Program tuition covers the full cost of tuition but excludes living (housing and food), medical insurance, textbooks, entertainment, telephone calls, car expenses as well as compulsory program expenses.

Other Study Costs

Program fees do not cover the cost of buying textbooks; the cost of textbooks varies depending on the program. Students should expect to pay up to AUD $1400 a year if they choose to buy a significant number of textbooks. Students may also be required to pay some additional fees to cover the cost of materials, equipment or other resources necessary to successfully complete a program.

Accommodation and Living Costs

The cost of living depends upon the background, individual lifestyle and expectations of the student, However most students manage on approximately AUD $18,600 per year.

This is exclusive of tuition fees but covers accommodation, food, public transport, clothing, entertainment and incidental expenses. Married students would need to add approximately AUD $6,300 for a spouse and AUD $3,600 for each child a year, if these family members accompany the student to Australia.

Schooling for Dependent Children Medical Insurance

Australian government legislation requires, as a condition of receiving their student visas that all international students purchase private medical insurance. IIBIT requires students to purchase this through the Australian government health insurance provider. FedUni will issue the necessary visa documentation (Confirmation of Enrolment) to students once the first semester (half year) program tuition fee has been paid and the Overseas Student Health Cover (OSHC) fee has been

OSHC provides the following

Medical Expenses

OSHC provides 85% of the scheduled (government recommended) fee for consultations with private doctors (including specialists) and emergency ambulance transport.

Hospital Costs

OSHC pays all charges for a shared ward and treatment in a public (government) hospital if a doctor appointed by the hospital treats you. If your own doctor treats you and charges more than the scheduled fee, you must pay the difference. If you choose to be treated in a private hospital, OSHC pays up to the scheduled fee for treatment and accommodation, but you must pay any extra costs.

Exclusions

OSHC does not pay for pharmaceutical drugs, dentists, physiotherapists, spectacles or contact lenses, pregnancy related services during the first nine months of cover or pre-existing conditions. Additional coverage for these purposes can be purchased separately from private health insurer. Full international student school fees must be paid for dependent school-age children unless the international student is receiving an Australian government scholarship. Each school-age child aged 5-18 will need to add approximately AUD $8,000 per year for tuition.

INFORMATION ABOUT VISAS

General Visa Conditions

All international students intending to enter Australia to study must apply for a student visa (an exception may be for students offered a program, such as an English language course, of less than three months). Details of the Australian Diplomatic Offices around the world where applications for a student visa can be lodged are available at the following website: <http://www.immi.gov.au/students/index.htm>

International students normally must obtain a student visa before they travel to Australia. However, students from selected countries may apply for a student visa after arrival in Australia on a temporary entry visa. Again, details may be obtained from the nearest Australian Diplomatic Office. Student visas are issued for full – time study. International students cannot study part – time. Students must provide evidence that they have sufficient funds to cover their tuition fees and living expenses whilst in Australia. Once enrolled, students must complete 6 calendar months of study of their program before they can change to another education institution in Australia, unless special permission is obtained. If a student is not satisfying program and/or visa requirements (including attending the program and making satisfactory academic progress) IIBIT by law must notify the relevant Commonwealth and State authorities and the student visa may be cancelled.

Visa Application Procedures

All international students must have applied for and have been accepted for full-time study in a registered program, or part of a program, by IIBIT before they can apply for a student visa. An electronic Confirmation of Enrolment (eCoE) form issued by FedUni offering a place in a program is proof of acceptance for visa purposes. Students wishing to undertake a package of programs (e.g. English language followed by a degree program) must apply and be accepted into each program in the 'package'. Students offered a 'package' program must apply for the visa subclass applicable to the principal course of the 'package'. Student visas are divided into seven subclasses.

Each Subclass is based on the education sector or level of the principal course of study (e.g. Higher Education; Masters and Doctorates; Vocational Education and Training Sector; ELICOS; Foundation Program). The Department of Immigration and Border Protection (DIBP) will assess student visa applicants who lodge their applications on or after 24 March 2012, with a Confirmation of Enrolment from a participating university in Australia at Bachelor, Masters or Doctoral degree level as though they were a lower migration risk (similar to the current Assessment Level 1), regardless of their country of origin. The assessment factors for each level include financial ability, English language proficiency, likely compliance with the conditions of the student's visa and other matters considered relevant to assessing each visa application. International students must meet the assessment factors applicable to all student visa applicants.

INFORMATION ABOUT VISAS

The general requirements include being of good character and sound health, having acceptable health insurance for the period of time in Australia and having no outstanding debts to the Commonwealth of Australia. Details of the student visa subclasses and related conditions are available at the following website:

<http://www.immi.gov.au/students/students/chooser>

Enrolment Status

It is a condition of enrolment that international students abide by the Australian student visa regulations. IIBIT monitors student enrolments and visa status and will advise students if visa requirements are not being met. The Student Services Department at IBIT must approve all international student enrolments in advance. Students amending their enrolments without this authority may have their enrolment cancelled or modified appropriately.

Work Rights

International students are able to work after they arrive in Australia and have commenced their program of study. All student visas granted on or after 26 April 2008 will receive permission to work automatically. This will apply to both the primary student and any family members travelling with them on their student visa. Students can work up to 40 hours a fortnight while their course is in session and they can work unlimited hours during scheduled course breaks. Family members of students are not allowed to work until the student begins their course and they are allowed to work up to 40 hours per fortnight at all times. Dependents of Subclass 574 Master's and Doctorate students have unlimited work rights after the principal student visa holder has commenced his or her program in Australia.

Students should check with the Department of Immigration and Border Protection (DIBP) in Australia for the latest requirements (<http://www.immi.gov.au>) as requirements can vary. Students should also consult the department's booklet 'General Skilled Migration' for current details of migration requirements for skilled migrants, including a list of skilled occupations in demand in Australia.

ESOS Framework

International students who are intending to study on-campus in Australia should be aware that Australia's laws promote quality education and consumer protection. These laws are known as the ESOS framework and they include the Education Services for Overseas Students (ESOS) ACT 2000 and the National Code of Practice for Registration Authorities and Providers of Education and Training to Overseas Students (National Code 2007). For further information about the ESOS framework, students should refer to the following Australian Government Website:

<https://aei.gov.au/regulatory-information/pages/regulatoryinformation.aspx>

Course Completion Expectations

International students enrolled in IIBIT courses are expected to complete their course within the normal duration of the course as specified in their offer letter.

There are defined compassionate and compelling circumstances that IIBIT may consider in the event that an international student is unable to complete their course within the expected duration, or are unable to meet attendance requirements, or wish to defer, suspend or cancel their enrolment. For further information please refer to www.iibit.edu.au

Course Credit/Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)

Student who have successfully completed accredited courses e.g. Certificate, Diploma etc. from a recognised training organisation in Australia or overseas prior to enrolling at IIBIT may be eligible for Course Credit/RPL towards their current studies.

Student wishing to apply for Course Credit/RPL must complete an application for Course Credit/ RPL form and provide the necessary documentation (i.e. descriptions of subjects previously studied) after they have received and accepted a formal offer of a place from IIBIT. This form is available from Student Services. Forms must be submitted for processing before term commencement date.

Students holding a Student Visa must apply for Course Credit/RPL after acceptance of an offer but before enrolment. This is a requirement of the Department of Immigration and Border Protection (DIBP), which will consider the number of valid Course Credit/RPL Units, granted by IIBIT and will then make a decision on the student's duration of stay in Australia to complete the course. For up to date information about IIBIT Course Credit /PRL Policy and Procedures please refer to our website www.iibit.edu.au. Students receiving course Credit/RPL are still required to maintain a standard full time load (20 hours per week).

Teaching and assessment methods

Teaching methods focus on classroom based face-to-face training, which includes lectures and practical tutorials.

Classes are small in size and lecturers focus on individual students needs during the learning process.

The emphasis in assessment is on collection of evidence, holistic assessment against the unit of competency and trainer/assessor judgment. Importance is placed on the integration of areas of theoretical knowledge, practical skills and proper work attitudes.

The following assessment methods are used:

- Written examinations
- Written and oral quizzes

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

The approach to language teaching methodology is communicative, with emphasis placed both on the presentation and practice of target language and on the consolidation and extension of language skills through the use of task-based learning activities. Teaching focuses on developing the language skills students require for the educational contexts in which they plan to continue their studies in English.

The focus for course content is provided by weekly themes and topics, which are used to contextualize the teaching of target language and skills. These themes/topics are determined with reference to students' vocational and study goals and interests; these provide a framework around which the language work, particularly the skills of , Reading, Writing, Listening, Speaking, Grammar and Vocabulary building are structured.

Emphasis is placed on the use of authentic materials. This is reflected in:

- Extensive use of authentic materials drawn from text-types covered on the course,
- Regular field trips to consolidate and extend work done in class and linked to the programs by pre-teaching and follow-up work,
- Talks by outside speakers on topics relevant to the programs.

Learning and assessment generally take place in an integrated classroom and simulated workplace environment.

GENERAL ENGLISH

(CRICOS CODE: 050895G)

Course Information:

The General English courses are intended to provide international students with the English language foundation and skills they need to function in social contexts in Australian society and to undertake further vocational courses. The programs focus on language used in everyday situations and provide a solid foundation in grammar, and the four main skills of listening, speaking, reading and writing.

The courses integrate the modes of language - that is, listening, speaking, reading and writing to improve students' understanding of the forms, features, and functions of language. Students will enhance their skills in analysing, responding to and composing a range of texts characteristic of those they will encounter in their social language interaction in Australia. The courses will also assist students in their development and understanding of various strategies and styles of learning.

Structure and Articulation with other Courses:

The General English courses range over four levels: Elementary, Pre-Intermediate, Intermediate and Upper Intermediate. All students will be assessed and placed into their appropriate level.

ENGLISH FOR ACADEMIC PURPOSES (EAP)

(CRICOS CODE: 054804F)

Course Information:

The English for Academic Purposes Program (EAP) is structured at two levels: EAP (Upper-Intermediate) and EAP (Advanced). The programs are intended for international students wishing to pursue studies at either undergraduate or post graduate level. The focus of each course is on the language skills students will need to undertake academic studies. Both courses will also prepare students for the cultural differences they may encounter both socially and academically on campus. Such areas would include expectations of lecturers, developing autonomous learning skills, working in groups, adjusting to study and social customs. Both EAP courses seek to create an environment whereby the student becomes self-determined and is able to learn using strategies most suitable to him/her. Using this learner-centred method the student becomes confident in approaching the demands and stresses associated with academic life.

Briefly, the aims of the EAP course are:

To enable students to become familiar with, and to practice applying, English medium academic conventions;

- To teach students to critically consider texts, discourses and issues by analysing the purposes behind the texts;
- To provide Writing, Reading, Listening and Speaking skills particularly suitable to academic environments;
- To enhance students' abilities to be independent learners and to utilize the World Wide Web for academic research;
- To facilitate a process for students so that they recognize and appreciate cultural viewpoints that may be different than their own;
- To make a smooth as possible transition from studying in the students' own countries and languages to studying in English.
